Over the past two weeks, the site team has completed the remaining piling works, completing all 61 piles. Following completion, the piling rig and all associated equipment were removed from site. The groundworkers have since begun excavating around the completed piles in the required sequence. Each exposed pile has been measured and marked to confirm the correct level for cropping, allowing the foundation works to progress accurately.

Moving forward, the remaining piles will be exposed, measured and cropped to the required level. The site team will then begin constructing the pile caps and ground beams, progressing the next phase of the foundation works.
